

The Gospel in Golf

JOHN HORRY

- In The Gospel in Golf, John Horry loosely draws an analogy between the Christian life and a round of golf. It is loose though, about as loose as his 5-iron!
- Join John and his regular playing partners Phil, Jason and Brian as they take you on a round of their local golf course in Nottinghamshire, England.
- With typical golfing humour and mandatory banter, the happy foursome demonstrate that even the most disastrous of holes can produce analogies for the Christian life whether you are a rookie believer, mid-handicap journeyman or a low handicap superstar.
- John also includes 'To the next tee' sections which recommend some further reading for those wishing to explore the Christian faith at a deeper level.

AUTHOR BIO

John Horry recently retired from an all-consuming senior role in a multi-national healthcare organisation. For many years John has been part of the leadership team at Stapleford Baptist Church, located in a small-town west of Nottingham. In that role he is engaged in a teaching ministry regularly speaking and leading meetings.

ENDORSEMENTS

'I found it refreshing to read a book that refuses to compartmentalise life: so, friendship, banter, theology and the joy of a game of golf all seamlessly blend into one.'
