

making the mummies dance

Would-be Preachers Delivering Life-Giving Sermons

CHRIS SPICER

Making the Mummies Dance

CHRIS SPICER

- 21st Century peaching needs help. Much of what passes as modern preaching is often nothing more than the bland leading the bland with horrible snore-inducing sermons or tiresome imitation TEDTALKS.
- How do we take that which has the potential to give life and make it live? How do we do thins thing called preaching better? Believing the best preachers are yet to come, Chris Spicer kickstarts a lively and constructive conversation among would-be preachers.
- Making the Mummies Dance is a manual for the kind of preaching that changes peoples' lives. The ten helpful tips in this book will prove invaluable for that great and epic task.

AUTHOR BIO

Chris Spicer is a Christian leader who has over fifty-years experience working with churches and learning centers throughout Europe, Africa and North America. Having lived in Portland Oregon and served as a Teaching Pastor in Peoria, Illinois, Chris still maintains links with churches in Illinois, Texas, Oklahoma and Oregon. Chris is married to Tina and they have four adult children and eight grandchildren.

ISBN: 9781912863822

April 2021

Category: Pastoral & Leadership

Paperback, 140mm x 216mm

208 pages, £10.99

malcolm down
PUBLISHING