A Journey Through Cancer

JOHN ELLWOOD

- For most people, a cancer diagnosis is one of the most devastating experiences of their lives. John Ellwood not only writes about his own personal experience with cancer, but also provides a guide to those navigating its troublesome path.

- A Journey Through Cancer deals with the public perception of cancer, the highs and lows of treatment, and the two potential outcomes. It weaves in spiritual aspects of sickness and scriptural support from the Bible. It provides practical tips and emotional advice in a balanced and sensitive way that treads the line of this incredibly harmful disease skilfully.

AUTHOR BIO

John Ellwood spent his working life as a teacher of English and Humanities, church leader and Head Teacher in Oxfordshire, including thirty years on the staff of The King's School, Witney. He is married to Celia, and they have four children and, at the last count, eight grandchildren.

ENDORSEMENTS

'John is not only a cancer survivor, but also a loving pastor and a thoughtful teacher, and what he's written is rich with understanding both of human suffering and of God's word. It did me good to read this booklet.'

Steve Jones, Senior Pastor, Oxford Community Church, Team Leader, Salt & Light Advance

'Some stories are too good to be true. This is a good story because it's true, and too good not to be told. It's the story of two journeys in one. The first, John's journey with cancer - raw, vulnerable, devoid of treacherous sentiment. The second, John's journey with God - tender, authentic, glorious! It's a riveting read. It's also an excellent handbook for pastors, carers and friends of others like John - full of wisdom and helpful tips.'

Rick Thomas, Hospital Doctor and Pastor, Salt and Light Ministries
